

PLAYING WITH LIGHT AND CREATING AN ILLUSION

Inspired by the Qajar dynasty that spanned over 120 years (1794–1925) and dominated the Persian Empire, the 'Qajar Pride Cufflinks and Ring' by Italian designer Alessio Boschi are a tribute to the dynasty's advancement of arts and craft, best seen in the traditional architectural details of the time, and especially the Panj Kāse or 'five concaved design'. The fancy multi-coloured gem-encrusted cufflinks and ring are all equipped with a hidden system of electricity, which allows the changing light to interact with the gemstones, recreating the effect of rays of light which enhance coloured glass in architecture.
